Sarah E. Graham is an Associate in Meyers Nave's Government and Regulatory Affairs Practice Group. Her practice focuses on advising cities, counties, and special districts on municipal and public agency law matters. Sarah is highly professional, detail-oriented, and responsive, combining strong knowledge of the law with a passion for problem-solving. Previously, Sarah clerked in the employment and land use sections of the Office of the Alameda County Council.

In law school, Sarah interned at the San Francisco City Attorney's Office and at the California Attorney General's Office of Correctional Law Section. Besides holding a Ph.D. in International Relations, Sarah was also an Assistant Professor at the United States Studies Center at the University of Sydney (Australia). Additionally, Sarah has taught at the University of California, Berkeley, and the University of Southern California, where she was also a postdoctoral fellow. During her academic career, Sarah published widely and has won several awards and honors, including the annual Stuart L. Bernath Prize for best published article on the history of U.S. foreign relations.

She earned a Certificate of Specialization in International Law from Berkeley Law, a Jurisprudence Award from Berkeley Law in 2021, as well as a Dean's Fellowship in 2019. Prior to that, she earned a PhD from the Australian National University (International Relations), and a B.A. with First Class Honors from the University of New South Wales (Political Science and Modern History).
